Challenge

Use your imagination to continue the story below about a girl who sees a very unusual white rabbit and decides to follow him. You may recognise the story. The text is from Alice in Wonderland by Lewis Carroll, from 1865.

Remember to:

- ensure your story is realistic and believable;
- include characters;
- use a range of sentence types to add interest and effect;
- use dialogue to move the story on.

In another moment down went Alice after it, never once considering how in the world she was to get out again.

The rabbit-hole went straight on like a tunnel for some way, then dipped suddenly down, so suddenly that Alice had not a moment to think about stopping herself before she found herself falling down a very deep well.

Either the well was very deep, or she fell very slowly, for she had plenty of time as she went down to look about her and to wonder what was going to happen next...

You could also try to find out:

- what female and male rabbits are called;
- in which continent more than half of the world's rabbits live;
- where wild rabbits live;
- about different breeds of rabbits.
